Sibling Placement

Clarification has been provided regarding requirements and efforts to place siblings together when biological siblings were previously adopted or when children are stepsiblings.

Although not required, best practice suggests efforts be made to identify biological siblings who may have been adopted. Placement and visitation are not required but are encouraged when the adoptive parent is interested in placement or visitation.

Efforts should be made, but are not required, to place stepsiblings together. A sibling split PER is not required when stepsiblings are placed apart.
